(By Dwight Walker.)

Lancaster, July 2.—The second game of the series between Lancaster and Newark on the local lot was played under protest by Manager Riehl of the Newark team. In the fifth inning Umpire Raphun chased Charley from the grounds for disputing a decision. In the sixth inning Kopf was hit on the end of the finger with a foul tip and his finger broken. Riehl was replaced and caught the rest of the game.

Lancaster came back in the second game and played rings around Newark, defeating them with ease by the score of 7 to 0. Dunnick did the hurting for the Lanks and held Newark to four scattered bingles. The Molders were unable to solve his delivery and not a hit was gathered off his offering after the third inning until the final round, when two more were added. Goshorn was touched up for 11 safe clouts, six going for extra bases. He was also wild and hit two men and threw the ball away a couple of times.

Lancaster started to scoring in the opening round when Lallier hit for two sacks, and was sacrificed to third by Don Hoffman. A wild pitch by Goshorn allowed Lal to score. The fifth inning was the big inning for Lancaster. Lallier, the first man up, clouted the ball clear to the center field fence and was sacrificed to third by Cyclone Hoffman. Lal scored by the way of Blake's perfect bunt and Riehl's low throw to the plate. Manger was hit on the arm and trotted off to first. Jimmy Welsh hit a fly to Kendall in center, but Ford walloped the pill over short and Blake scored. Handsome Lobert slammed the leather to the fence for two sacks and Manger and Ford scored. Cobb hit safe, but a quick return of the ball held Lobert at third. Dunnick struck out.

Again in the sixth and seventh the Lanks scored a run. Lallier hit to third and was pegged out. Hoffman clouted the pill for a couple of sacks and went to third on Blake's hit over short. A wild throw by Riehl, who was then catching, allowed Cyclone to score. Baby Blake was thrown out at third trying to get home on Hanna's error to short. In the eighth chapter, Ford, the first man up, met the ball square on the nose and hit the pill to deep right, making three bases. Lobert fled out, but Harry came home on Cobb's hit past second.

Lancaster played a much better game Friday than they did at the opening contest. The features of the game were the pitching of Dunnick and Ford's batting and base running. Don Hoffman made a wonderful one-handed catch of Charley Riehl's line drive to center after a great run. Cobb in right field also made a beautiful catch on the dead run of McDowell's hard hit ball. Behind the Screen

All luck seems to pursue the Newark team, and it made itself felt again yesterday, when Kopf, who was catching the game since Anderson was injured, broke his finger at the joint. The injury is a severe one and the bone protruded through the flesh. Manager Riehl, who has played every position on the right side of the diamond, went behind the bat and Clickinger was put on first.

In spite of the fact that the Molders are playing a losing game, all the papers over the circuit speak of the gameness of the squad and mention the fact that the boys play baseball all the time. Any team that Newark stacks up against isn't sure of the game until the last man is down in the ninth.

Owner Ruff of the Lancaster team has given Fryer his release. Fryer started with Chillicothe and was also turned loose by the Babes.

Outfielder and Catcher Ruff, a brother of the owner of the Lank team, has handed in his quitting papers. Ruff hasn't been a big success and was anxious to get out of the game.

If names count for anything the Lancaster team should be able to get away from now on. They have a Cobb and a Lobert on their team and if they are anything like the Tiger and the Red watch the smoke of the Lanks.

Something of a record was made in the Marion-Chillicothe game yesterday when 10 bases on balls were given by Zmich and Wilkie.

Ayette, the clever shortstop of the Diggers, is a very sick man. He was put under the care of Dr. Marr as soon as he returned to the hotel, and the physician advised ice baths, being fearful that the player might develop typhoid fever. The applications did a good deal of good, and today Ayette was better, but in no condition to play. All of the Marion boys are more or less under the weather, and they blame it on the Portsmouth water, saying it is awful.—Chillicothe Advertiser.

Clickinger was just one too many for the Lanks and kept his bingles well scattered. The boy twirled a nice game and had no license to lose. He was formerly with the Lank bunch but was thought to be a weak proposition. He showed the Lancaster team up in one grand style. Not too weak for Newark. Oh, no!—Lancaster Gazette.

The Newark boys played as fine a game as one would want to look at. Hard chances were turned into easy ones and they all worked like a locomotive. Hanna and Conley starred on several different occasions. In the sixth inning Hanna cut Fryer out of a hit by making a wonderful catch. The little shortstop caught the ball with his back to the diamond after a hard run. Conley distinguished himself by getting all the hard chances that came his way.—Lancaster Gazette.

NO ADMISSION.

Tomorrow morning at 9:30 the Hermanns and Independents will cross bats at Wehrle Park. All players are requested to be at grounds not later than 9 o'clock. No admission will be charged.

HEAT CAUSES BLINDNESS.

Findlay, July 2.—W. J. Bird, operator at the Nickel Plate Morimer Station, was overcome by heat yesterday afternoon and stricken with blindness. He recovered his sight several hours later.

John McCann, a pike contractor, suffered a slight sunstroke, but recovered.

of the camera, waving a standard bearing the name of their brand. How Jeffries stood for it is more than any level-headed person could understand. They even went so far as to nail over the entrance to Jeffries' cottage an illuminated sign, bearing the name of the brand. Even while the moving pictures of Jeffries and his training squad only were being taken, pictures that will live in pugilistic history, the wine sign hung over Jeffries' head. It is only fair to Jeffries to say that he came when he was 30 years of age, before the physical maturity to which men of large physique sometimes come late. This is proved by the fact that Jeffries is larger boud now than he was then and he has developed in every manner.

Jeffries has not had to "come back" in the sense that he was a "has been," but as a precaution he has devoted a year and a half to preparation for a fight for which training would usually last only six weeks. Jeffries will be faster Monday than in any previous fight. His whole system of training has been designed to build up his speed and soften his muscles. As the result of having soft muscles he will be able to stand more punishment than he would if nature's armor had been hard and rigid. With this end in view, Jeffries has actually spent more time on the massage table than in exercise and the result will be an athletic masterpiece for speed and endurance.

A great deal has been said of Jeffries' lack of boxing practice. On the eve of the fight, now that secrecy is no longer of any value, I will say that Jeffries has had double the amount of boxing and massage than the public has ever heard of. For several weeks past and on practically every day when the crowd was disappointed in not getting to see the big fellow working, he was boxing. Jeffries has been rising at 4 a. m. and has been hauling out his brother Jack and Bob Armstrong for secret boxing. These workouts were invariably followed by massage, the whole proceeding being kept secret in order to clinch the belief in the Johnson camp that Jeffries was not working as hard as necessary. Jeffries will win this fight well under 20 rounds, but should the battle go beyond that it will see Jeffries carrying the battle so full of speed and vitality as to surprise all except his most intimate followers.

JOHNSON'S TRAINING CAMP.

(By Tip Wright.)
Johnson's Training Camp, Rick's Resort, Reno, Nev., July 2.—Betting on Monday's fight, which has been light up to the present time, despite contrary reports, began to get brisk today. Some indication of what the Johnson followers will do, and where they stand on the betting, was given out last night, when a crowd of Jack's admirers tried to bluff Bob Armstrong, Jeff's dusky sparring partner, by offers to bet $1000 on Johnson at 6-1-2 to 10. Armstrong immediately vanished, amid the jeers of his colored brethren, but the Johnson crowd lost its jubilation and changed its tune when Bob returned half an hour later, accompanied by Denver Ed Martin and a thousand plunks, ready to bet. The admirers of Johnson declined to wager and the big crowd that had gathered at the hotel booed them. Things are pretty dull these days around both camps, the proceedings being enlivened only by a strong undercurrent of excitement. Both men have knocked off work and Johnson does nothing but loaf and play the bass viol, while Jeffries fishes.

Frank Gotch arrived at Jeffries' training camp last night, but it is doubtful if he will assist the boiler-maker in any way except by one or two short wrestling bouts.

CONTESTS AT MUSIC HALL MONDAY AFT.

The Davis Amusement Co., incorporated, has arranged to give full returns of the Jeffries-Johnson fight at the Music Hall auditorium Monday afternoon, July 4, at 3:30 o'clock.

The management also announces a fifteen round boxing contest between Yellow Bane of Columbus and Joe Campbell of New Castle, Pa. Both of these boys are clever light weights and promise to give a good account of themselves. Bane's work has been seen here before and he put up one of the cleverest exhibitions ever seen in the city. Campbell is said to be the best man in his class in Pennsylvania. Manager Davis states that he will have several added attractions which are bound to please his patrons.

Jeffries-Johnson returns at Grand theatre July 4th. ... 30d3

J. A. (Bert) Auld's boat will be committee boat.

C. D. Lynch will look after general matters in connection with power boat and sail boat racing.

HEAT CONCENTRATOR FOR THE GAS STOVE

When you place a kettle over the naked flame of a gas stove only about 10 per cent. of the heat's efficiency reaches the material to be heated; 90 per cent. is wasted. There has recently been devised a portable oven by which all the heat is concentrated upon the viands being cooked. It is said to have all the advantages of the oven without the trouble or expense of making a hot fire or starting two or three gas burners for the purpose of heating the oven of the gas

OUTCOME
By ANDREW C. EVING
Copyright, 1916, by American Association.

There is no truer saying
"there is compensation in all things."
An example of this came under observation in the case of one of subordinates in the army. It began during an engagement.

In the heat of the fight a stretcher was carried past me and I saw the face of one of my lieutenants, Tom Ashley. Pale and with closed eyes.
He opened them and gave me the most melancholy look I ever received from any one. A blanket was laid across his body, leaving his legs bare. It was but a momentary passage, after which I became as intent on directing the work of slaughter as before. We won a victory and pushed on after the enemy, leaving our dead to be put in the ground by a burial squad and our wounded to be taken care of by the surgeons. They cut off a part of Ashley's left leg and all of his right arm.

I felt an especial pang in the case of Ashley, for, besides being the most promising subaltern in my battalion, I knew that he was engaged to be married to a very lovely girl. Besides being lovely, she had a fortune in her own right, and I knew that Ashley, who had nothing but his pay, was looking forward to his marriage with her as soon as the war was over and a happy life to follow. In one short fight that lasted barely ten minutes he had been made a cripple and his life was blighted.

A few days later, being near the hospital where Lieutenant Ashley was lying, I went to see him. I found him, as I expected, in a melancholy state of mind. His distress all seemed concentrated on the fact that he must give up the girl he loved. I endeavored to comfort him by suggesting that she might make a sacrifice for him, but he assured me that on no account would he permit her to do so. Indeed, he told me that he had been waiting for some one nearly connected with him to write her, announcing his situation and that he released her.

It was a sad duty, and when it was performed I ventured again to express a doubt as to whether the girl would accept of her release, but Ashley declared that no man with a soul in his body would permit a girl to tie herself up for life with a man minus a leg and an arm. Besides, she was the idol of her parents, who would not permit her to make any such sacrifice. They were so ambitious for her that they had only reluctantly consented to her engagement with Ashley, who was one of the most promising officers in the army.

He described her to me as a very feminine person, who had been brought up to follow their slightest wish. Considering this feature of the case, I mailed the letter, believing that Lieutenant Ashley and Miss Barnes would mutually agree to give up their prospective union.

Two days were required for the missive to reach its destination, and a reply could not be received in less than two days more. Meanwhile I visited Ashley twice. He evidently felt easier sure he had dispatched his letter, considering the matter of his engagement closed. On the fifth day after I had sent his missive I went to the hospital and there found the reply.

It was Miss Barnes herself.

The meeting had taken place—for the girl had arrived several hours before—and with it had passed that first shock
at the coming together of two people who had suffered and must continue to suffer such an overwhelming misfortune. Miss Barnes had more nearly recovered from it than Ashley, though now and again I could see tiny wave-lets of something like happiness passing over his face. Miss Barnes was busying herself to make him more comfortable. She had brought with her certain articles for the purpose, especially underclothing, which he greatly needed, and with the help of a soldier nurse was putting it on him with no more compunction than if she had been his wife.

Miss Barnes remained with Ashley until he was sufficiently recovered to travel, when she took him home with her. A few months later, the war being over, I followed. Ashley had given in to the girl whom he loved and who loved him, and they were only waiting for me to be present at the wedding. Miss Barnes had astonished every one by having her own way in the matter, having conquered her parents as well as her lover.

The wedding was not one of those joyous occasions where the young people start out in a career that heaven seems to smile on. The witnesses felt a tinge of sadness, and the groom was inexpressibly overcome. Only the bride seemed to be herself. She told me after the ceremony that she believed she was happier than if her husband had been physically perfect. The reason she gave for this was that the man she loved so dearly was and would be dependent upon her for his lifelong comfort. In ministering to that comfort she had not only an object, but an object that filled her whole heart.

I visited the Ashleys some years later. Tom had accepted a professorship to teach military branches in a college, thus having his time pleasantly occupied. Two children had come to the couple, both of whom appreciated beyond their years their father's physical loss. But this physical de-vation was his only loss. He had gained the peace of a family,

Heart and Home Talks

Two Girls and a Hindoo.

The papers have been filled lately with the exposure of a man in New York who posed as a Hindoo and gave physical culture lessons. His clientele were wealthy and apparently intelligent people, though when one reads the strange performances of his pupils, one wonders if we, as a race, are as far advanced mentally as we pride ourselves on being. The point in the testimony, however, that is worth especial study was that given by two young girls, apparently clever, bright girls, one a stenographer. Both were afraid to say or do aught against the alleged Hindoo, for, according to the stenographer's statement, "He will go to the cellar in his house and touch a wire there that connects with a crystal that influences millions of the spirits of Hindoos that are dead, and that might bring about anything he wished. And he could do it so that there would be no trace of me or what happened to me."

If this were said by some poor, benighted girl of India or China, we would think her a fit subject for missionary work, and lament the awful state of ignorance and superstition of these poor people. But it was actually stated and believed by a bright American girl, and it took much persuasion to calm her fears and to make her believe she would not be harmed if she testified against the man.

There must be some serious underlying cause when girls in this country and in this day arrive at such a state of mind, unless they were out of their mind, which they were not. Wasn't the start made, perhaps as children, when they were taught to be afraid of the dark, to believe in hobgoblins and bogie men, in some weird and uncanny influences, call them what one will, over which one has no control? In many homes such things are thoughtlessly held up before children as a means of frightening them into obedience, or of making them "be good," or, if not for this reason, simply from pure thoughtlessness on the part of the older folks. Mothers will, by the simple question, "Are you afraid to go to bed in the dark?" often put the idea into a child's head that there is something to be afraid of. A child would know nothing of such things if he did not hear of them in some way through older folks' talk. A child's imagination is, as a rule, very strong, and it sometimes does strange things. One word is sufficient to start it out on strange quests, and it will people the world for the child with all sorts of strange creatures, unless wiser, older heads disabuse the child's mind of all harmful fancies.

A girl who has been brought up with sane, sound, healthy views as to the world and the laws governing it, who has been shown the pretty moonshine of fairy tales, or the beautiful symbolism of them, if you wish, would let no magic wire and spirits of dead Hindoos bother her. And since there are people in the world who will try to influence others in just such superstitious ways, if possible, it is wise to safeguard the young folks against all such influences by putting in their hands the torch of knowledge. This will throw such a strong and brilliant light on all these weird tales and practices that their flimsiness and falsity will be seen at a glance.

Potato Salad—Pare and boil four good-sized potatoes. Cut them into slices, and add one onion, cut as thin as possible. Put into a bowl one-half of a teaspoonful of salt and a salt-spoonful of pepper, and then one tablespoonful of olive oil. Rub with a wooden spoon until the salt is dissolved, then add another tablespoonful of oil; mix, add two more, and the two of vinegar a little at a time; mix until the whole looks white, and is well blended. Pour this over the potatoes while they are hot, dish them, sprinkle with chopped parsley, and stand aside until cold.

Iced Coffee—Iced coffee as usually served in New York cafes is simply black coffee cooled in a china freezer, by having slightly salted ice packed around it. But a syrup is sometimes made in the proportions of three-quarters of a cupful of sugar to one-quarter of a cupful of water. When this spins a thread, add it to one quart of black coffee with one-half cup of milk and one-half of a cup of cream. Mix well and cool in a freezer. Again it is served in a china freezer, dissolved in one quart of black coffee and cooled. Add one quart of cream and put in the freezer. As the ice forms on the outside of the freezer, it should be removed, and when the coffee is thoroughly cooled, it should be poured into the glass.

Migration into this country reached its highwater mark during 1909.

The celebration of Independence Day is becoming gradually molded in the direction of rationality. Along with the stand already taken in Cleveland, Chicago and this year in New York City, the manner of celebrating the day at a resort like Chautauqua deserves mention. Chautauqua is in the "safe and sane" class. The program will be adapted to the spirit of the day but there are restrictions.

Against the use of fireworks, firecrackers and the like. The list of casualties on the Fourth of July in years past has been appalling. Thousands of children have been maimed, hundreds of people killed, enormous values in property destroyed. Newark, fortunately, has suffered less than many cities of this class. The danger is here so long as the festive character and "harmless" toy pistol are used. Let us hope that Newark will escape both accidents and loss of property on Monday and let us trust that the city council in its wisdom will by the time another Glorious Fourth comes around pass a "Safe and Sane" ordinance.

In the meantime let us all hope that the boys and girls will have a glorious Fourth and that none of them will be hurt next Monday.

GARFIELD FAVORS PROGRESSIVES IN THE REP. PARTY

Cleveland, July 2.—In accepting an invitation to speak before the New Progressive Republican Organization of Cleveland on July 11, James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior, and warm friend of Theodore Roosevelt, wrote to the organization a letter defining his attitude on progressive Republicanism. "It is most timely to consider what the progressive movement means and what action it calls for," wrote Garfield. "Those who seek to drive the progressives out of the Republican party are blind to the condition and needs of our people. Such partisans would save the world all will the spirit."

GIRL'S DRESS CATCHES FIRE FROM CRACKERS

The first accident resulting from firecrackers occurred Friday afternoon and led to the prompt action of her mother, little Helen Hohl might have been seriously burned. The little girl was playing with several friends at her home, 103 North Fourth street, and they were shooting penny firecrackers when the package exploded. The exploding crackers alighted in the little girl's dress and it was almost burned from her body, but she was not injured. Mrs. J. W. Hohl, hearing the screams of her daughter, ran from the house and smothered the flames and in so doing her hands and arms were painfully burned. The escape of little Helen was an exceedingly narrow one and should be a warning to other parents for many accidents of a similar nature are liable to occur on the "Glorious Fourth."

POLICE COURT.

Bertha Dickinson and Mamie Call, seamed and happy, were taken in at 6:15 last night by Officers Callen and McDevitt, just as they were at the height of their celebration. They were slated for being drunk and disorderly and in police court this morning the women were given $1 and costs. As neither were able to settle they were sent to the county jail.

F. T. Bush, who said his residence was Coshocton, was arrested last night at 7:40 by Officer Dunley, and sent to the city prison slated for investigation. Bush was acting in a suspicious manner, according to the policeman. He was discharged this morning when his case was called in police court.

RACE RIOT CONTINUES

Meriden Hall, Miss., July 2.—The race riot started yesterday was continued with renewed violence today. Six negroes have been killed and the mob is hunting for more.

ALLEN O. MEYERS DEAD AT TRILBY

Allen O. July 2.—Allen O. Meyers, one of the best known political writers in Ohio, and for years a practical politician, died at his home at Trilby today. Death was due to cerebral hemorrhage brought on by a stroke of paralysis three weeks ago.

After describing the revolutionary leaders as progressives, Mr. Garfield continued: "Today political liberty is at stake and the life of the nation is threatened by social interests who would control our political action for their own benefit, regardless of the common good. There is no halfway ground in the fight today. The social interests must be driven out of politics and kept out. The progressives of today will win the battle."

In closing the former cabinet officer announced that he would, in his address, amplify the arrival of the insurgents as above set forth.

REPUBLICAN PAPERS DEFEND OUR CONGRESSMAN

This week's issue of the T- in City independent, published at Uhrichsville, Ohio, an independent Republican paper, has this to say: "Last week the Newark Advocate came out in defense of Congressman Ashbrook from an attack made on him by the Newark Tribune. The Tribune claims that, as a Democrat, Ashbrook has no influence. The Tribune of the center is that Ashbrook more from Washington than any other that ever represented and his increased majority election shows that in the estimation of the Wayne county Court following from its statement recent issue:

The Renomination of Governor Harmon.

(Chicago Record Herald)

Higher honors and greater opportunities may or may not be in store for Governor Harmon, but sufficient unto the year is the duty, responsibility, privilege thereof. Governor Harmon has deserved the unanimous and enthusiastic renomination he has received. He has been an efficient, progressive, able administrator of Ohio's state affairs. He has fought and exposed graft. He has co-operated with a Republican legislature—or it with him—in enacting needed legislation. He has high concepts of public duty and official trust. He is naturally averse to premature "presidential" talk.

It is to such men as Harmon that Democracy must look for sound and successful leadership, political and moral units, concord, good work—whether in office or opposition—are the things that make a party strong and useful, and Governor Harmon has done a man's, a statesman's part in improving Democratic conditions and prospects.

STATE MEET TO BE HELD IN THIS CITY

The state agents of the Ford Motor Car Company will hold their annual convention in Newark on July 25, and it is expected that about 500 agents of the company will be here. Last year the meeting was held in Youngstown and was a big affair, and through the efforts of Denis White, of this city, the local agent for the state, it was decided to meet in Newark this year.

In the morning a big parade will be held and there will be an executive session, and in the afternoon the visitors will go to Buckeye Lake, where the afternoon will be spent in the numerous ways afforded by that resort.

It is expected that there will be 150 cars in Newark on that day, all owned by Ford agents and each car will seat four people, who will come to Newark as guests of the company. Every owner of a Ford car is invited to be present to take part in the festivities.

Mr. Van Patton, the advertising agent of the Ford factory at Cleveland, will be in the city next week to make the final arrangements.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

Some time ago a club was formed by some of the women of the city to raise funds for the purchase of books for the public library. The members of this club pledge themselves to give $1 annually for this purpose. The club already has over 100 names and has been almost the only dependence of the library for the purchase of new books, which are so greatly needed to supply the increasing demand. Reports are published monthly of this club—what it is doing and what books have been purchased from time to time. There has been, however, no general canvass of the city, and so comparatively few people have had an opportunity to subscribe. It is now proposed to send out a solicitor, Miss Ruth Agnew, who will make a house to house canvass. We hope and trust that she will meet with a generous response. One dollar is a small amount for any public spirited citizen to give for this purpose. The public library has done excellent work and is meeting a long felt want, as the constant stream of men, women and children who frequent it attest. We are to have a fine new postoffice building; we should also have a fine public library. We are behind almost all the towns of this size in the country in this particular. We shall also be glad to receive larger sums than $1. A number of subscribers have been generous enough to give us larger subscriptions. If you are not interested in the public library, go to the rooms and see what has been done and what is needed. We ask the help of all the men and women of Newark.

ANNE M. WOTRING,

Chairman Library Club.

LIZZIE RANKIN, Secretary.

There is also a subscription list at the library rooms should the solicitor not call upon you.

When Judge Sentenced Him to Die in the Electric Chair at Sing Sing Prison.

New York, July 1.—Upon hearing the sentence to die in the electric chair pronounced by Judge Foster, Morris M. Lustig, the private detective who was convicted of murdering his wife, smiled and then laughed. The court set the week of August 8 for Lustig's death. As the proceedings were about ended Lustig turned to his counsel and remarked, "This is easy." Lustig, formerly lived in Milroy, Pa. An appeal is to be made by his attorneys.

APPRAISERS HAVE FINISHED THEIR DUTIES

The Board of Appraisers of real estate of the city of Newark, practically finished their work Friday, taking the time limit allowed by law. The clerks will still have six or eight weeks work, before then checking up the appraisements, making out the duplicates and getting out the lists for the property owners. The work of the appraisers has been done thoroughly and never in the history of the city has a more complete record of all the properties been prepared, and as stated above the clerks have yet to get the records in shape for publication, pamphlets to go to every property owner.

The appraisement will show an increase of two and a half times that of the 1908 duplicate. The joint stock companies of the city add up a valuation of approximately between seven and hundred thousand dollars. Mr. E. O. Horton, clerk of the Newark Board of Appraisers, recently returned from Coshocton where he called on the county auditor in reference to the appraisement of the city of Coshocton in 1910. He found that their figures for 1909 showed the valuation to be $2,498,000, while the duplicate under the new appraisement was $9,922,350. A big increase is also shown in Mt. Vernon.

POLICE COURT.

Dumitru Treest, a Roumanian, was arrested last night by Officer Hinger on a warrant charging him with picking the pocket of John Dumitru, a countryman. The men with the unpronounceable names are both employed at the American Bottle plant, and John claims that on June 3 his countryman got to him for the sum of $16 and had a gay old time as a result of the easily secured change. The affair was not pushed for some time, as John had all the confidence in the world in human nature but when his friend failed to ante up the amount he began growing angry and swore to a warrant for his arrest. One Roumanian is like another, and it was not until last night that the police succeeded in finding the man they sought.

In police court this morning he was given a hearing and when he said "me not guilty," he was bound over to the court of common pleas in the sum of $200.

Mrs. George Howard is out $10, the result of moving from one house to another, according to a report she made at police headquarters. After the moving van had made its last trip and the bill for $5 was presented, she gave $10 to the teamster and in turn he gave it to another to get change. The other, said to be Burke Cochran, took the money and since then he has not been seen by the police, who are looking for him.

Several drunks were given the usual fine this morning in police court.

SALE OF MEN'S SHIRTS — TOMORROW — ALL $1.00 SHIRTS FOR 50 CENTS.

At THE POWERS-MILLER CO.

Accidents will happen, but the best remedy is to have a first aid kit. Electric Oil for such emergencies. It soothes the pain and heals the cuts.

They have some reason to claim in that the Standard Oil company in locating its pumping station placed it close to New Straitsville and the reason given for selecting this location was that it was anticipated that the New Straitsville district would be the most important of the field. As yet there has not been a large number of wells drilled at New Straitsville but indications are that this summer will see development work under way on a large scale.

The David Holsafer company completed its well No. 10 on its lease in the Bremen field and will cease operations now for a time and proceed to pay some nice dividends for several months. The last well drilled by this company has not varied any from the others and has fallen in line with 15 other nice producers.

The Purvis-Turner company drilled in recently on the Press Householder lease and have a small well. It is thought to be good for 15 or 20 barrels per day.

The J. E. Purvis Revalty company is now drilling seven wells on its lease and paying its regular monthly dividend.

The Capital company reports its well No. 1 on the C. F. Johnson farm in Jackson township to be drilling in the line. The drillers are making nice progress with this well and will drill it in within the next few weeks.

The Shawnee company has completed its well at McConesville and it is reported to be a nice pump. It is said by conservative oil men to be a well that will make about 15 barrels per day.

The Best company will start drilling within a short time on the Clark farm in Jackson township. It is located near the well No. 1 of the Twin Bridge company on the Thomas farm.

The Central Perry company has one among the nice producers in the Junction City field on the Clarke lease.

The Carter company in the Bremen field has started a well drilling on the Stoner farm northeast of Bremen.

The Springfield company has started drilling a well on the Myers lease just west of Bremen.

The Twin Bridge company is progressing nicely on its well No. 3 on the R. J. Snyder farm in Jackson township.

The Diamond company is drilling its well No. 1 on the Ashbaugh farm in the Bremen field. This lease is located just west of Bremen and looks to be located in the territory that produces the fluid.

The Bremen company will start a number of wells in the Bremen field within a few days. It will also start several wells in the Fagdale field at once.

The Crusade company is progressing nicely with its well No. 3 on the Ferguson lease in Jackson township.

The Southern company located on the J. Snyder farm in Jackson township will start a well this week. The big well drilled in some time on the James Bringardner farm.

Men who have recently been visiting the southeastern Ohio territory are making some statements which are cause for much argument among men interested in different districts of the field. These men say that the New Straitsville district will be the banner district of the field and they have been taking up large acreages of leases in the last few weeks.

The Avion company drilled in its well No. 3 on the Emma Elder lease a few days ago and has a showing for a small well. It has located two more wells on this lease which will be started at once.

The Prosperity company has declared another dividend of 15 per cent. The company is reported to be in good condition financially and will pay several dividends before the summer is over.

The Logan company has finished its No. 1 well on the S. W. Kinner farm east of Shell Beach, Rockeye Lake. Volume three millions. Three other locations have been made on the same farm. They have locations on the farms of Mary Graves and Isaac Coffman in the Union field.

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. AMUSEMENTS

RIGEL PARK.
The National Stock company played "The Outlaw's Romance" last night at Rigel Park to a good audience, and it is needless to say that they enjoyed it. Judging from the amount of applause and curtain calls they received. If you have not seen her, it would pay you to go out and see a first class, clean performance, with specialties between the acts by Mr. Sterling and Miss Kensell. BOB WHITE'S AID TO THE FARMERS

The living quail aids growing crops in two ways. First, by destroying weed seeds, and second, by destroying harmful insects.

It might be stated parenthetically here, that anything which increases crops lowers the price of that crop to the consumer, and that any factor which reduces the crop increases the price of food as far as farm products go. It probably makes less difference to the farmers of the whole country in general whether their crops are below or above the average in amount than it does to those who have to buy their food, as the income from a larger crop at low prices is about the same as from a smaller crop at higher prices.

To what extent, then, does the quail (Bob White) is a much better name) help to increase the crop by destroying the enemies of the crop—weed seeds and insects?

From examination of the digestive cavities of the birds, it has been discovered that during the fall and winter its food consists largely of weed seeds. Bob White eats the seeds of 60 species of weeds. Since the digestion of birds is very rapid, the seeds present in the digestive cavity at the time the bird is killed represent only one-third of the day's total consumption. As a sample of Bob White's efficiency as a weed destroyer, the following enumeration of the seeds found in a single bird will serve:

200 seeds of smart weed.
200 seeds of red sorrel.
200 seeds of three-seeded mercury.
100 seeds of ragweed.
This represents but a single meal or one-third of the number destroyed that one day. A quail feeding on a weedy field, preyed to contain 5000 seeds of green fox-tail and 10,000 seeds of pigweed.

Two Personal, Important Questions— Have YOU been fair to this great man? Are YOU reading this fascinating play?

Peary Proves It!

If you have a grain of doubt, if you are not fully informed, if you have supported any other claimant for North Pole honors, if you have become tired of the whole subject, BE FAIR to Commander Peary and read the July installment of "Peary's Own Story" which PROVES HE GOT THERE! You will be thrilled by the narrative—the awful sledge journey—crossing "leads" on ice rafts—Borup's rescue of the dog team—the separation of the ice in the middle of Peary's camp—the hardships, the mental torture, and the magnificent courage of the expedition—and all the rest. And you will be convinced—you will know the truth, which is what you want as a fair and square American.

"Chantecler"—In English!

The world is talking about it, the world wants to read it. All America is reading it—your friends, your neighbors, everybody around you, and you can read it in English in "HAMPTON'S" only. This great drama, with its characters of birds and fowls—its brilliant wit—its delightful slang—is the most fascinating piece of writing that has appeared for decades. How human nature is parodied—so kindly yet so truthfully! No work of fiction ever contained a love story like that of "Chantecler" and his hen pheasant. For youths, maidens or grown-ups, this wonderful play by Edmond Rostand has intense delight, truest humor, wise counsel, the secrets of life.

"Speaking of Widows and Orphans"

The most dramatic chapter in Charles Edward Russell's series on the Central Pacific Millionaire Mill. It is the story of the settlers who lost their lives in their contest with the railroad power, and contains the pitiful recital on the witness stand of Mrs. Colton, the widow of Huntington's friend, who was robbed of her husband's millions.

"The Speed Kings" For Automobilists

Intimate, personal stories by Edward Lyell Fox about the world's greatest automobile drivers and their flirtations with death. An article that is full of the lure of speed, the glamor of racing, the atmosphere of the road race, the thrilling acts of dare-devil drivers,—side lights on the great automobile contests of the century.

"A Fighting Character" the City Child

Every parent—every intelligent woman—will have a personal and simple and forceful account by Dorris of the modern life—savvy and teachers, who work to give chance to thousands of sickly children,—the future mothers who have had a false start toward CONSIDERING men in relation to money there are three kinds whom I dislike: men who have more money than they can spend; men who have more money than they do spend, and men who spend more money than they have. I believe I have the least of the first. But, as a man, I liked Spencer North pretty well, although he had the two or ten, or thirty millions—I've not exactly how many.

I leave town that summer. I usually go to a village on the south shore of Long Island place was surrounded by duck farms, and dogs and whippoorwills and all made so much noise that I could not sleep peacefully as if I were in my own flat in the elevated railroad in New York. I did not go. Remember that. Friends asked me why I did not. I refused, old man. New York is the finest city in the world. You have heard that. But that is what I told him.

Agent that year for Binkly & Bing, managers and producers. Of course I was a press agent. Well, he is not a secret of being one.

touring France in his new C. & N. car, and Bing had gone to Scotland to which he seemed to associate in his tongue rather than with ice. Before he gave me June and July, on salary, which act was in accord with their liberality. But, I remained in New York. I had decided was the finest summer at before. I thought, North came to town from his Adirondacks. Try to imagine a camp with no plumbing, elder-down quilts, a solid silver plate, and a long-sleeved shirt. Of course it was in the woods and I wanted to preserve the forests let citizen two or ten or thirty million and the trees will all gather around the camp, as the Birnam woods came to be preserved.

to see me in my three rooms and large for light when used extravagantly. He slapped me on the back and have my ships kicked any day) with outdoor obstreperousness and spirits. He was insolently brown and, offensively well dressed.

for a few days," said he, "to see me and stuff like that. My law comes. Well, you indolent cock doing in town? I took a chance and they said you were here. I was with that Utopia on Long Island to take your typewriter and temper every summer? Anything but swans, weren't they, that used to swim at night?"

"The songs of swans are for the eyes and curve their necks on the estates of the wealthy to of the favorites of Fortune."

Adirondack," said North, "to delight in the grants and bummers. I've seen the same thing. But why are you in the city this summer?"

I began to recite, "Is the finest summer in the world," said North, emphatically. "You told me on me, I know you told me you ought to have gone up with the Prestons are there, and Tom and Lulu Stanford and the other aunt that you liked so

Kennedy's aunt," I said. "I did," said North. "We are the same time we've ever had. The are so ravenous that I believe your hook with a Montana cop fastened on it. And we're a bunch; and I'll tell you what for two—to tow a rowboat with a big phonograph and a boy in 'em. On the water, and you, they are not so bad. I've been knocking around it better. There are some first-rate musical light operas on the roofs and outdoors. And if you hunt up the place up there. And the Pinecliff Inn is only three miles away. You know the Pinecliff. Some good people are there this season and we run over to the dances twice a week. Can't you go back with me for a week, old man?"

I laughed. "Northy," said I—"if I may be so familiar with a millionaire, because I hate both the names Spencer and Greenville—your invitation is meant kindly, but—the city in the summertime for me. Here, while the bourgeoisie is away, I can live as Nero lived—barricade, thank heaven, the fiddling—while the city burns at ninety in the shade. The tropics and the zones wait upon me like handmaids. I sit under Florida palms and eat pomegranates while Borras himself, electrically conjured up, blows upon me his Arctic breath. As for trout, you know, yourself, that Jean, at Maurice's, cooks them better than anyone else in the world."

"Be advised," said North. "My chef has pinched the blue ribbon from the lot. He lays some a little whirl between bicycle cops in Central Park and then a mug of sticky ale in some stuffy restaurant under a fan that can't stir up as many revolutions in a week as Nicaragua can in a day."

"Well, begin with the spin through the Park, anyhow," I said. I was choking with the hot, stale air of my little apartment, and I wanted that breath of the cool to brace me for the task of proving to my friend that New York was the greatest—and so forth.

"Where can you find air any fresher or purer than this?" I asked, as we sped into Central's boskiest dell.

"Air?" said North, contemptuously. "Do you call this air?—this muggy vapor smelling of garbage and gasoline smoke. Man, I wish you could get one sniff of the real Adirondack air in the pine woods at daylight."

"I have heard of it," said I. "But for fragrance and tang and a joy in the nostrils I would not give one puff of sea breeze across the bay down on my little boat dock on Long Island for ten of your turpentine-scented tornadoes."

"Then why," asked North, a little curiously, "don't you go there instead of staying cooped up in this Greater Bakery?"

"Because," said I, doggedly, "I have discovered that New York is the greatest summer—"

"North grumbled all during the meal."

slices of bacon inside the trout, wraps it all in corn husks—the husks of green corn, you know—buries them in hot ashes and covers them with live coals. We build fires on the bank of the lake and have fish suppers."

"I know," said I. "And the servants bring down tables and chairs and damask cloths, and you eat with silver forks. I know the kind of camps that you millionaires have. And there are champagne pails set about, disgracing the wild flowers and, no doubt, Madame Terrazini to sing in the boat pavilion after the trout."

"Oh, no," said North, concernedly. "We were never as bad as that. We did have a variety troupe up from the city three or four nights, but they weren't stars by as far as light can travel in the same length of time. I always like a few home comforts even when I'm roughing it. But don't tell me you prefer to stay in the city during summer. I don't believe it. If you do, why did you spend your summers there for the last four years, even sneaking away from town on a night train, and refusing to tell your friends where this Arcadian village was?"

"Because," said I, "they might have followed me and discovered it. But since then I have learned that Amarillis has come to town. The coolest things, the freshest, the brightest, the choicest, are to be found in the city. If you're nothing on hand this evening I will show you."

"I'm free," said North, "and I have my light car outside. I suppose, since you've been converted to the town that your idea of rural sport is to have other tables gave animation and color to the scene. And an excellent dinner, mainly from the refrigerator, seemed to successfully back my judgment as to summer resorts. But North grumbled all during the meal, and cursed his lawyers and prated so of his confounded camp in the woods that I began to wish he would go back there and leave me in my peaceful city retreat.

After dining we went to a roof garden vaudeville that was being much praised. There we found a good bill, an artificially cooled atmosphere, cold drinks, prompt service, and a gay, well-dressed audience. North was bored.

"If this isn't comfortable enough for you on the hottest August night for five years," I said, a little sarcastically, "you might think about the kids down in Delancey and Hester streets lying out on the fire escapes with their tongues hanging out, trying to get a breath of air that hasn't been fried on both sides. The contrast might increase your enjoyment."

"Don't talk Socialism," said North. "I gave five hundred dollars to the free ice fund on the first of May. I'm contrasting these stale, artificial, hollow, wearisome 'amusements' with the enjoyment a man can get in the woods. You should see the fire and pines do skirt dances during a storm; and lie down flat and drink out of a mountain branch at the end of a day's tramp after the deer. That's the only way to spend a summer. Get out and live with nature."

"I agree with you absolutely," said I, with emphasis.

For one moment I had relaxed my vigilance, and had spoken my true sentiments. North looked at me long and curiously.

"Then why, in the name of Pan and Apollo," he asked, "have you been singing this deceitful paean to summer in town?"

I suppose I looked my guilt.

"Ha," said North, "I see. May I ask her name?"

"Annie Ashton," said I, simply. "She played Nannette in Binkly & Bing's production of 'The Silver Cord.' She is to have a better part next season."

"Take me to see her," said North.

Miss Ashton lived with her mother in a small hotel. They were out of the West, and had a little money that bridged the seasons. As press agent of Binkly & Bing I had tried to keep her before the public. As Robert James Vandiver I had hoped to withdraw her; for if ever one was needed to keep company with said Vandiver and smell the salt breeze on the south shore of Long Island and listen to the ducks quack in the watches of the night, it was the Ashton set forth above.

But she had a soul above ducks—above nightingales; aye, even above birds of paradise. She was very beautiful, with quiet ways, and seemed genuine. She had both taste and talent for the stage, and she liked to stay at home and read and make caps for her mother. She was unvaryingly kind and friendly with Binkly & Bing's press agent. Since the theatre had closed she had allowed Mr. Vandiver to call in an unofficial role. I had often spoken to her of my friend, Spencer Greenville North; and so, as it was early, the first turn of the vaudeville being not yet over, we left to find a telephone.

Miss Ashton would be very glad to see Mr. Vandiver and Mr. North.

We found her fitting a new cap on her mother. I never saw her look more charming.

North made himself disagreeably entertaining. He was a good talker, and had a way with him. Besides, he had two, ten, or thirty millions. I've forgotten which. I incautiously admired the mother's cap, whereupon she brought out her store of a dozen or two and I took a course in edgings and frills. Even though Annie's fingers had pinked, or rucked, or hemmed, or whatever you do to 'em, they palled upon me. And I could hear North driving to Annie about his odious Adirondack camp.

Two days after that I saw North in his motor

SULT AND SEVENTH
New York, July 2.—The sultan of Sulu, who is credited with wanting to marry Alice Roosevelt, is on his way to bodyguard of 14 servants. Incidentally the sultan has $250,000 in pearls to adorn his person. The sultan left Manila two weeks ago and after a brief visit in England will head direct for New York and promises to make a tour of the country. The sultan of Sulu claims descent from that valiant Loyal Borneo chief, Paganus Tinig, who early in the 19th century conquered the Sulu archipelago, founded the sultanate and opened the way for the introduction therein of the religion of the great prophet. This sultanate, politically regarded as an integral part of the Philippines, came into the possession of the United States as the result of the Spanish-American war. Under the old regime the group of about 140 islands constituted a vassal domain in the suzerainty of the king of Spain. The authority of the sultan is nominal, but the devotion of his subjects is unqualified. In a material sense he is wanting nothing. He receives an annual income from the British North Borneo company in lieu of his sovereign rights in Bruni and owns a fine collection of pearls. He is short and thickset. He wears a slight black mustache and his hair is closely cropped. His eyes are small. His attire is picturesque. He can be extremely affable, particularly when the subject of his diminishing power is avoided.

It is understood that twenty-four affidavits charging fifteen operators of soda drink parlors with violating the county local option law, have been filed by the law and order league with the mayor of the village of Granville. It is said that Marshal Stone of Granville was in the city Saturday in consultation with an attorney regarding the collection of his costs in such cases. Some of the parties it is alleged have as many as three affidavits filed against them charging various violations. Warrants will probably be issued late Saturday afternoon.

LINKS OPENED AT COUNTRY CLUB

"Fore," and as this well known golf term rang out on the air, "biff!" went a driver against a golf ball, and the first shot over the new golf course of the Licking Country Club at the old encampment grounds had been made. It was a clean 200-yard drive and was quickly followed by others, proclaiming that the ancient and honorable game of golf was finally inaugurated in Newark.

Mr. George Bingley has worked wonders with the grounds and they are in excellent condition now. Two weeks time, however, will see them in even better condition. The young grass is shooting through with great rapidity and soon the entire course will look as smooth and beautiful as any lawn. Mr. Bingley is the golf professional of the club, and in addition to overseeing the grounds, teaches the game, fits out members with clubs and supplies and looks after golf matters generally. He is a quiet, genial fellow and knows the game from the ground up. He comes to Newark from the famous Chevy Chase Club of Washington, where the president delights to swing the driver and brassie.

The tees with their sand boxes are in splendid shape, and the fair greens are likewise in good condition. The putting greens have been clipped short and a fine loam sprinkled over them. They, however, will not be in the best of condition until the new young grass has sprung up. The course looks most beautiful and doubtless will become one of the finest in the state in the near future. The vistas, at whatever angle you look, are most entrancing, and are sufficient to draw the club members out their by their own intrinsic worth.

Plans for the new club house have been adopted and the contract for its erection will be let in the next ten days. It calls for a $7000 house and its location in the fine grove of beeches will make it a powerful magnet for those who are fortunate enough to belong to the club. Lounging room, dining room, locker room and shower baths, spacious verandas and the wide, well kept golf links in front will soon make the Country Club grounds the mecca for the club members and their friends.

The most auspicious event to which the members are looking forward with the keenest interest, is the visit of Mr. George Sargent, the open champion of the United States. He is the professional in charge of the Chevy Chase links and the one who teaches the president and the other notables of Washington the game of golf. Mr. Sargent will visit Newark some time during this month and play over the course with Mr. Bingley. There will doubtless be a large gallery to follow them over the links. Seldom is a golf course, except at great expense, honored by a visit of the person who holds the open championship of the United States.

The membership of the club is limited to the stockholders and the shares are being bought with great avidity. After they are gone prospective bidders will have to go on the waiting list until a share is placed on the market. This plan will soon put the stock at a premium and will always provide a market for its disposal.

INSURGENTS VISIT SAGAMORE HILL

Oyster Bay, July 2.—The three biggest men in Kansas from the standpoint of insurgency were closeted with Col. Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill today. It was admittedly the most important conference participated in by the former president since his return from Africa and the result is expected to have momentous effect on the coming congressional campaign. The trio that journeyed here in the deliberation of "insurgency" were U. S. Senator Joseph Bristol, Congressman Edmund H. Madison and Victor Murdock. It is believed the three will ask Roosevelt to make an early public statement of his political views.

FIGHT MAY CAUSE TROUBLE.

Washington, July 2.—In sections of the south where the race question is a vital issue and in many cities along the borderland, the Jeffries-Johnson fight has taken on an aspect of the utmost seriousness, and apprehension is felt today as to the result if the negro wins the battle.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write daily to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trade with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.—take the advice received and be well.
